This kit contains many types of threats a security officer may encounter at a main-entry checkpoint or a mail screening facility. This kit was designed by the U.S. Marshal’s Service to be used at all U.S. Federal Courthouses. The kit contains X-ray correct guns, knives, explosives simulants, and IED firing circuits. The kit gives management the ability to build diverse configurations of both known and hypothetical IED threats, allowing for an almost unlimited variety of scenarios to be presented to security officers. The kit contains 42 different threat items, and all of them are X-ray and metal detector correct and will respond in these systems just like the real threat would respond.
